MIDDLE-SCHOOL STEM TEACHERS WANTED: NYS CAPITAL REGION SUMMER OPPORTUNITY

In 2023, CBET launched its "Making of Medicine" summer camp. This year's camp will provide a three-day educator training session for middle-school STEM teachers. Teachers will then engage with students in on-site STEM activities. Teachers will also have direct access to the expertise of CBET scientists and receive valuable real-world experience. The summer camp will enroll a diverse group of students from underrepresented communities while providing mentoring to STEM educators. The camp is sponsored by a grant from the Battelle, a non-profit science and technology development company.

Benefits for Teachers:

- Explore engaging, hands-on STEM education designed for the classroom
- Receive ongoing mentorship throughout the summer camp and the 2024-2025 academic year from our experienced team
- Connect with other educators in the Capital Region
- Gain access to various lab activities and programming resources
- Receive essential lab supply kits and teaching materials for your classroom
- Earn a $300 stipend upon completion of the camp
